

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections.

Indiana's Telephone Privacy law has improved the sanctity of my home by not allowing unwanted intruders in my home using telecommunications.

This effort by Indiana State Attorney Steve Carter has been very effective.

I was receiving 2 to 3 calls every day including Sunday.

Currently I am getting none unless I am a current customer or have requested information from a vender.

Indiana has set a great example for the nation.

Do not lessen our privacy with a weakened national standard.

Thank you, teresa jackson